Billy Nasty, the man who brought us the first ever DJ produced commercial mix album (gaining him entry into the Guinness Book of Records) in the form "Journeys By DJs" back in 1991, is here for the next instalment of TrusttheDJ's new breed of online mix albums.

"The CD starts a journey on the more disco inspired techno by the likes of Player, Umek's Mumps project and the funkier side of The Advent's production." Says Billy.

"Moving on, it builds up steam with the help from Sharpside's "Space Cruising" which gives the mix a real boot up the arse. Respect to Jericho's Jel Ford, Sweden's Mr Sliff plus Marco Carola for coming up with such stunning bassy tribal grooves". Listen and you'll know.

"The final third of the CD is when we reach top gear. Energetic rollers from Adam Beyer, Ben Simms and the Advent show the harder and more ballistic side of what I do. Moving in with the mysterious Pain 23 release and Kevin Saunderson's amazing remix of Funk D'Void's "Diabla" which were two of my biggest records of the year."

Billy's hopeful that 2002 will reward his sound: "I think that techno's change of direction towards a more funky approach will help this often overlooked form of music to reach a newer and broader audience. I hope you, the purchaser, enjoy this mix and hopefully keeps an eye and an ear out for the following CDs I plan to do with TrusttheDJ".

With his two labels; Tortured - with it's thumping beats and power cuts - and Electrix - his newest label which deals in experimental electronica, plus his popular residency at The End called "Open To Torture" and his busy DJ diary around the globe, Billy Nasty is a busy, busy man.
